

[Download] Don't Let It Happen To You : What Every Mother Should Know Before Emigrating (English Edition)

Don't Let It Happen To You : What Every Mother Should Know Before Emigrating (English Edition)

Von Rachel Tilley

*audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC*

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrank: #903510 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2013-10-13Erscheinungsdatum: 2013-10-13File Name: B00FV80PTM | File size: 67.Mb

Von Rachel Tilley : Don't Let It Happen To You : What Every Mother Should Know Before Emigrating (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Don't Let It Happen To You : What Every Mother Should Know Before Emigrating (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich.

Fascinating story of a woman's legal and emotional battle to keep her son.Von Mrs. WormwoodA strong warning runs through this book, and that is to be sure of your rights when you emigrate. Rachel's emotional and legal battles to keep her son with her, and to keep herself safe were heartfelt.It's wonderful to see that community and helping your fellow man are still strong instincts, and I would hope that all that read this think again about the single parent who is poor, and rather than condemn them, ask them if they can help.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich.

lesenswertVon S.W.Zur Vermeidung des Dilemmas als Elternteil in einem anderen Land bedingt durch seine Kinder gefangen gehalten zu werden unbedingt empfehlenswert. Hoffentlich lesen es viele (besonders Frauen) bevor sie die Entscheidung treffen ihr Heimatland zu verlassen.

KurzbeschreibungWhat every mother should know before emigrating with her children.Are you thinking of moving abroad for a better life? Have you been watching TV shows such as A Place In The Sun or A New Life Down Under? Are you researching some books at the moment to find out more information about living in another country?If you have children and you are thinking about moving abroad then read this book before you move. The TV programmes, Migration Agents and Immigration Departments do not tell you about the serious consequences that this book covers; the consequences of what could happen if you and your partner split up and one of you wants to return home with the children.This is a true story of an English woman's move to Australia in 2004 with her partner and son and the difficulties and legal complexities that followed once they had separated due to domestic abuse. Trapped in a foreign country with no family or friends to turn to for support, Rachel Tilley became embroiled in a tough journey to survive without money or a permanent place to live. Unable to return to England with her two year old son, or legally remain in Australia in her own right, this story follows the reality of what happens when a move to a new country doesn't work out as hoped for and The Hague Convention of International Parental Child Abduction becomes involved. The Hague Convention of International Parental Child Abduction applies to 96 countries. Whether you are moving from England to Australia, America to New Zealand or Ireland to Spain, what happens in this book could be relevant and the information is worth knowing before you leave the comfort and security of family, friends and 'home'."Let's give it a try. If it doesn't work out we can always come home." That is one of the biggest myths about moving abroad, so don't be fooled. If only it was that simple!Learn from Rachel's story and don't let it happen to you!Please help to raise awareness of this law and inform friends or family who you know are thinking of moving to another country about it - let's raise awareness of this problem.If you're a mum trapped abroad, or you know a mum trapped abroad then Facebook page GlobalARRK and website Expat Stuck Parent offers support and help.KurzbeschreibungWhat every mother should know before emigrating with her children.Are you thinking of moving abroad for a better life? Have you been watching TV shows such as A Place In The Sun or A New Life Down Under? Are you researching some books at the moment to find out more information about living in another country?If you have children and you are thinking about moving abroad then read this book before you move. The TV programmes, Migration Agents and Immigration Departments do not tell you about the serious consequences that this book covers; the consequences of what could happen if you and your partner split up and one of you wants to return home with the children.This is a true story of an English woman's move to Australia in 2004 with her partner and son and the difficulties and legal complexities that followed once they had separated due to domestic abuse. Trapped in a foreign country with no family or friends to turn to for support, Rachel Tilley became embroiled in a tough journey to survive without money or a permanent place to live. Unable to return to England with her two year old son, or legally remain in Australia in her own right, this story follows the reality of what happens when a move to a new country doesn't work out as hoped for and The Hague Convention of International Parental Child Abduction becomes involved. The Hague Convention of International Parental Child Abduction applies to 96 countries. Whether you are moving from England to Australia, America to New Zealand or Ireland to Spain, what happens in this book could be relevant and the information is worth knowing before you leave the comfort and security of family, friends and 'home'."Let's give it a try. If it doesn't work out we can always come home." That is one of the biggest myths about moving abroad, so don't be fooled. If only it was that simple!Learn from Rachel's story and don't let it happen to you!Please help to raise awareness of this law and inform friends or family who you know are thinking of moving to another country about it - let's raise awareness of this problem.If you're a mum trapped abroad, or you know a mum trapped abroad then Facebook page GlobalARRK and website Expat Stuck Parent offers support and help.