Good for late elementary, early middle schoolers.Von Ein KundeA boy of about 12 keeps a journal as part of a writing assignment. In the process he explores events in his life such as a gym class test, death of an older neighbor, the divorce of his parents, and his attitude towards writing. The book reads right along and was enjoyed by my 11-yr-old son.He said, "I wanted to keep reading it because it was interesting." One annoying aspect is the publisher's choice to use a typewriter font on cheap-looking paper. It did not work to capture the idea of a student's journal and detracts from the appearance of the book.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A boys parents are divorced and he can't climb ropes.....Von Ein KundeThis book is about a boy his parents are divorced and in school he has to use a proverb as a story. And in gym class he has to climb a rope but doesn't know how. But with a little help, he may not have to worry about it anymore but then again he may!0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. THIS BOOK RULES!Von Ein KundeI loved this book, it was heartwarming, and everyone should read it. It was a "Texas Bluebonnet Award" Winner. It deserved every single qualification that you need to be a bluebonnet! You'll absolutely love it! A MUST READ!

KurzbeschreibungRichard gets frustrated by most of Mr. Bests assignments, but this latest one is the worst. He has to write a composition about a proverb that illustrates something that has happened in his life. And as if that isn't bad enough, Mr. Best has told him he needs to find his writing voice. While working on the assignment, Richard finds his voice in more ways than one. He discovers that being himself makes a big difference in his writing and in his life.
